

B5 – Working age people who have never worked

Baseline and Trends: Baseline year – 2005. Between 2005 and 2008, the percentage of working age people who have never worked has

- Increased from 7.8% to 8.4% amongst disabled people
- Increased from 7.4% to 8.1% amongst non disabled people

The gap between disabled and non disabled people has not significantly changed since the baseline.

Working age people who have never worked

Definition: The data covers all working age adults (males aged 16-64, females aged 16-59) who report they have never worked according to National Statistics Socio-economics Classification. Respondents who report a current disability consistent with the Disability Discrimination Act are defined as disabled. Data is for Great Britain.

Note: All previously published Labour Force Survey figures have slightly changed due to the recent re-weighting of the survey population. Previously published figures have been recalculated taking those who are either currently ILO unemployed or inactive, and that have said they have never had a paid job. This has then been expressed as a percentage of the working age population.

Data Source: Labour Force Survey, Q2